

War Program For Hotels

A new war program for public eating places, effective October 21, is announced by the Food Administration. It is estimated that nearly 9 million persons eat at the hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, clubs and dining cars of the country; and the food consumption in these places is larger than in the average home. In view of the immense consumption of food in all those places serving the public, the Food Administration is asking these institutions to undertake in many particulars a more strict program than that of last year.

Neither bread and butter nor sugar may be served, according to these new regulations, unless the guests requests it. When bread and butter is asked for it must not be put upon the table until the first course is served. This is to do away with the pre-war custom of idly consuming bread while waiting for the first course to come. If sugar is requested not more than one teaspoonful may be served to one person.

Portions of meat must be cut to the best advantage and as small as practicable to meet the requirements of patrons. No more than one portion of any kind of meat or poultry may be served at any one meal. Economy in the use of coffee is urged on account of the scarcity of ships.

Service of late suppers and of teas and elaborate luncheons and banquets are discouraged. When late suppers are served, the regulations stipulate all meats should be eliminated, and sea foods, game in season, egg dishes and by-products of meat substituted.

There are two ways of spending a dollar. You can spend it at home, gain an easy conscience, make another friend and perhaps get the dollar back tomorrow or you send it away, feel that you have sinned, offend the home merchant and forever lose the dollar and the blessed influence for good to yourself and neighbor.

Pennsylvania's production of coal during 1917 reached the unprecedented total of 267,735,001 net tons, and if it had not been for abnormal conditions due to the war would have gone to nearly 300,000,000 tons.

The Red Cross.

By the end of this year the Red Cross will have appropriated for use among the Belgians the sum of $3,379,699. Eighty-two canteens which provide refreshments for 25,000 soldiers, are in operation. Nine hospitals have been maintained. About 15,000 Belgian children are happier and healthier as a result of day nurseries established by the Red Cross. 90,000 Belgian people remaining in the small area not under German control and 600,000 refugees scattered throughout Europe have been aided in many ways.

The Red Cross has compiled a short pamphlet containing facts which every soldier ought to know. This pamphlet will be distributed by draft boards and Home Service sections of the Red Cross throughout the country. It contains essential information concerning War Risk Insurance, family allowances and other allotments; government compensation in addition to insurance, legal advice, legal proceedings the prevention of eviction, and the foreclosing of mortgages, the prevention of lapses of insurance policies, the prevention of the sale of land for taxes, the protection of homestead rights and many other highly important matters. The American Red Cross stands as guardian to the families of the men who are fighting for us.

The Southwestern Division of the American Red Cross has rendered services and supplied materials exceeding $250,000 in value during the past week, to combat the spread of Spanish influenza. Medical supplies, blankets, pajamas and gauze masked have been furnished to many camps in the division. Graduate nurses and nurses' aids have been dispatched to cantonment towns and other points where the epidemic has been serious. George W. Simmons, manager of the Southwestern Division, states that every resource of the Red Cross will be drawn upon, if necessary, to prevent the spread of the disease.

Ten Poor Boys.

Abraham Lincoln was the son of a wretchedly poor farmer in Kentucky, and lived in a log cabin until he was twenty-one years old.

Andrew Jackson was born in a log hut in North Carolina, and was reared in the pine woods for which the State is famous.

John Adams, second president, was the son of a grocer of very moderate means. The only start he had was a good education.

James K. Polk spent the earlier years of his life helping to dig a living out of a new farm in North Carolina. He was afterwards clerk in a country store.

Millard Fillmore was a son of a New York farmer, and his home was an humble one. He learned the business of a clothier.

James Buchanan was born in a small town in the Allegheny Mountains. His father cut the logs and built the house in what was then a wilderness.

Andrew Johnson was apprenticed to a tailor at the age of ten years by his widowed mother. He was never able to attend school, and picked up all the education he had.

Ulysses S. Grant lived the life of a village boy, in a plain house on the banks of the Ohio river, until he was seventeen years of age.

James A. Garfield was born in a log cabin. He worked on the farm until he was strong enough to use carpenter's tools, when he learned the trade. He afterwards worked on a canal boat.

Grover Cleveland's father was a Presbyterian minister with a small salary and a large family. The boys had to earn their living.

Please bring the little tots in the MORNING.—Miss Belle Johnson.

The young man who has given up his trade, business or profession to go to war should not think all has been lost. He is merely diverted temporarily from his chosen path and for a little while marching behind Old Glory in the name of and for humanity. The nation has set out to make it plain that no other shall bother us, that the world and even the people of our enemy may be free; that but one king shall reign who knows justice and mercy, goodness and truth. Many will not return from the conflict, but they will not have died in vain, and the pages of history will so regard it.

The editor of The Shelby County Herald states a new policy of that paper as follows: "With very little wood to be had and with what there is in sight selling at $4 a cord, and coal hovering around the $7 mark, we are in favor of a mild winter."

Notice of Final Settlement.
